TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

As the classroom teacher of the Childcare program at Wanneroo Secondary College I have known Christina Self for 5 years, through our association with the 'Baby Think it Over' program, now delivered by Red Ginger Services.

The child care class in which we have been using the virtual baby program is conducted with students at Year 10 level. This is not only a virtual parenting experience, but also covers important sexual health information. This course has mainly involved girls; however a few boys have participated willingly in the program.

The Presenter, Christina, has been a wonderful asset to the program, as her knowledge is excellent and the way in which she presents is very professional.

The program gives students a sense of reality of what it is like to actually have a baby at this young age. Most of the students come into the subject wanting to have a baby and leave with the realization that they need to wait a few more years. After two nights of sleep deprivation and having to constantly care for something else it has been a life changing experience.

I would highly recommend this interactive and interesting program to other schools and community groups.

Yours faithfully
